

WHAT YOU DID

FADE IN.

INT. PRISON CELL

BUCK(32) sits on the bottom bed of bunks. Buck is a skinny, bookish kind of guy. He has his head in his hands. The whole prison is in darkness apart from the emergency lights.

The top bunk is filled by BIG T(28). Big T is asleep and his snores fill the room.

Buck looks up, tears in his eyes. He has two black eyes and most of his teeth are missing. The redness of his nose shows it is newly broken.

Buck stands up and begins to pace back and forth in the cell. He chews his fingernails. Every time there is movement from the top bulk, he flinches.

CUT TO

EXT. EXERCISE YARD - DAY

Buck sits on the step in the corner of the yard. He's found the one isolated part of the yard. He is deep in thought. The injuries to his face are gone.

He looks at his watch and bites his nails. He looks around with impatience.

CUT TO

INT. PRISON CELL

Buck continues to pace. A uniformed figure appears at the entrance to his cell.

Buck looks over his shoulder and smiles. Relief written all over his face. He walks over to the bars.

CUT TO

EXT. EXERCISE YARD - DAY

Buck looks to the ground as if in prayer. A shadow of a figure sweeps over him.

Buck looks up in shock. A smile appears on his face.

(CONTINUED)

BUCK
You're late.

FIGURE(O.S)
Shut up. You've got five minutes.

The PRISON GUARD sits down next to Buck. A serious look on his face as he checks that no-one can see them.

BUCK
You thought about what I asked you?

PRISON GUARD
Why do you think I'm here? The price has gone up tho.

Buck looks across at the guard with anger.

BUCK
Gone up? How much?

PRISON GUARD
Fifty thousand. Wired to my bank account before anything happens.

Buck shakes his head. He stares at the guard.

PRISON GUARD - CONT
Or I can just walk away and you can take your chances?

BUCK
No, no don't please. Fifty thousand? OK, you'll get the money but I want him in no condition to ever come back.

PRISON GUARD
Don't worry. Once I know the money's there Big T won't be bothering you any more.

Buck laughs manically. The guard stands up and walks away.

CUT TO

INT. PRISON CELL

Buck and the same Prison Guard stand face to face. Only the bars separate them. They talk in hushed tones.

(CONTINUED)

BUCK

So, you get the money? Where's the rest? You said you had two others to help.

PRISON GUARD

There's been a change of plan Buck. I've just found out what you did.

Buck bangs the bars in anger. He raises his voice.

BUCK

What I did? That hasn't got anything to do with it, we had a deal!

PRISON GUARD

The way I see it Buck, it has everything to do with it. A five year old? You deserve everything you get.

Buck calms himself down. He takes deep breaths.

BUCK

Listen, I'll get you more. Another fifty? He's going to kill me soon for sure. Name your price.

The guard shakes his head. He looks at Buck in disgust.

PRISON GUARD

Goodbye Buck, and thanks for the money.

The guard walks away. Buck's eyes following him, desperately.

The giant figure of Big T appears behind Buck.

Buck turns around and begins to sink to the floor.

Big T grabs Buck by the hair and drags him over to the beds.

CUT TO

INT. PRISON WALKWAY - CONT

The Prison Guard continues his rounds. The sound of his shoes on the metal walkway begins to be drowned out by Buck's screams.

FINAL FADE OUT