INT. POLICE STATION - NIGHT

A DESK SERGEANT answers the phone.

DESK SERGEANT
911. What's your emergency?

MRS. PEABODY (O.S.)
Listen, we just moved into the area on Montgomery Drive and there's horrible screaming from the house across the street.

DESK SERGEANT
Montgomery Drive? We know the house.
I'll send someone right over.

EXT. 7 MONTGOMERY DRIVE - NIGHT

TWO OFFICERS exit a patrol car in front of a Gothic Victorian house. The younger cop removes his gun.

OLDER OFFICER
You won't need that.

INT. 7 MONTGOMERY DRIVE - CONTINUOUS

They push through the front door into the foyer. The chandelier sways violently. LOUD SCREAMS. Books fly off the shelf. The younger cop is visibly frightened as they are both thrown against the wall by an unseen force.

OLDER OFFICER
Look, we know you're angry and have unfinished business, but your new neighbors seem like nice people. So please, we're asking you politely for a little less drama and we really don't want to come back again.

The screaming leaves off. The chandelier stops swaying.

The officers leave.
