SYNOPSIS

Two high school kids, EZ (Easy) and FREDDY, work on building a new web business aimed at helping students do homework -- for a price. EZ is a creative computer savvy animation master on the computer, while Freddy is more involved in the business of sales and marketing.

In the process of building animations and graphics, EZ creates an anonymous hi-tech video aimed simply at asking out one girl, VERA. This video is accidentally mailed out and unintentionally posted on national websites, then quickly goes viral. It is not long before international news breaks about this “Meet A Mate” singles gathering scheduled for Saturday night at a local park.

When boys finally discover the misunderstanding, it’s too late. Traffic fills local streets, internet giants try to censor party promotion, and national news widely covers this dating phenomenon. Police and military go on the lookout for the web creators responsible for this unapproved international event. School faculty, students, and media are just part of the crowd gathering at Old Towne Park.

EZ and Freddy avoid police by dressing up as Freddy’s parents and sneak onto the packed local park, hoping to warn Vera of their mistake. Media and web giants are set on bringing the gathering to a close and apprehending the guilty party. Intoxicated teachers flirt with EZ and Freddy resulting in face slaps and reluctant dances. Parents and family search for signs, and police pull their guns in the dramatic search for the unlicensed perpetrators.

When EZ finally spots Vera, he removes wig and tries to explain how this international celebration accidentally started. Suddenly, armed police, website owners, live local and international media, reporters, helicopters, family, and large crowds chase them around the park.

The teenage computer geek finally turns to Vera and asks her out on a date. She says yes, and police move in, as we fade out.
