

Evil For Evil is a short film project that seeks to show, with a little humor, karma as a destiny imposed by the attitudes we take, the result of the mission we choose through the opportunities we are given to channel the energy that moves us. towards our goals. This project brings, in the light of cinematographic art, the dark enthusiasm of the dream of getting rich at the expense of the suffering of others and its consequences that, at times, are irrevocable.

The script tells the story of a bandit who applies scams against elderly people over the telephone who, on the eve of fleeing the country, receives a package by mistake. Without giving much importance to the contents of the package, she takes advantage of her last day in the country to commit more crimes. But upon discovering that the police have dismantled her gang's headquarters, her plans fall apart and she is faced with a trap of fate, realizing that her only chance of escape depends on what is inside the wrongly received package.

By Joe Bacchin © 2021