

FEMI-NATION SYNOPSIS.

AUTHOR: Benadict Kwamboka.

LOGLINE:

Facing gender based violation from males all females evacuate to Vancouver Island for safety. Angela and her mother Jocelyn who are the recent victims of the same have to find a way to escape to Vancouver Island but they end up getting stuck at the airport waiting to be rescued.

SYNOPSIS :

Seavey is a thirty six year old weapon business owner. He receives an emergency call informing him about some of his weapons that had gone missing. It turns out they have been shipped without his consent and the primary suspect is his manager. During one of his chats with his chats with his bartender friend Sean, Sean advises him to ask his wife Jocelyn to manage the store.

Following his friend's advice Seavey asks Jocelyn to manage the store but she turns down the offer leading to an argument between them. The argument also makes Seavey to disappear from home for a while.

Angela, their thirteen year old feminist daughter is interested in living in Vancouver Island, an Island which is dominated by females. During one of the days Angela ends up being a victim of being objectified but since she's strong she stands up for her rights and ends up fighting.

Angela gets suspended from school.

One of the evenings Seavey shows up at home unexpectedly and threatens to kill Jocelyn but Angela saves her by hitting Seavey giving them a chance to escape. Angela and Jocelyn end up at the airport waiting for the Vancouver Island female rescue team to save them.