STRANGER THINGS
EPISODE 3:
ONE OF THOSE FACES

By
EARL NEWTON
(StrangerThings.tv)

Based on the original short story
"Rami Temporales" by Gary Braunbeck
(GaryBraunbeck.com)

Second Draft

This file contains additional director's notes concerning the evolution of the script from page to frame.

Find this episode and more at StrangerThings.tv
The world's first science fiction series shot and released in high definition on the Internet.

Earl Newton
Earl@strangerthings.tv
INT. CAFE

Joanna sits, eating a cheeseburger and reading a book. A woman stops by her table.

WOMAN
Excuse me, do you have the time?

JOANNA (checks)
Half-past two.

WOMAN
Thank you.

She hesitates.

WOMAN (CONT'D)
Is it all right if I sit down?

JOANNA
Okay.

CUT TO:

The woman talking.

WOMAN
She's been sick for so long. The doctors don't know what to do. I just watch her, she's so lonely, and getting sicker all the time...I want to help but I don't know what to do.

As she speaks, Joanna speaks in voiceover. She's very somber, very quiet.

JOANNA (VO)
This happens to me, all the time.

She watches the woman talk.

JOANNA (CONT'D) (VO)
She reminded me so much of the first one who spoke to me...only...no, that girl had just had an abortion for the third time. She was a little younger. (beat) I was twelve.
WOMAN
She doesn't have anyone...

JOANNA
(interrupts)
She has you, right?

WOMAN
Yeah...I guess she does.
(checks cellphone)
Oh my goodness. I'm so sorry to bother, you've been so kind -

JOANNA
- It's okay -

WOMAN
I guess you just have one those faces, huh?

The woman leaves, and JoAnna watches her go.

JOANNA
(VO)
This is how it always is. I'm the one they ask for directions. I'm the one they tell their stories to. I'm the one they stop to-

As she stands to leave -

VOICE
Sit down, please.

JOANNA
What?

This is the metered voice of LISTEN, the character we are about to meet. But for the moment, we only hear him.

LISTEN
Don't turn around yet.

JOANNA
Is this a robbery?

Joanna looks toward the cash register, there's no one to help her.

LISTEN
No. Please sit down.
Joanna slowly sits. Listen's voice is very soft and reassuring.

LISTEN (CONT'D)
What I'm about to tell you is going to be very unsettling, but I can tell you that it is not a threat, it is the truth. I mean you no harm by telling you. And I would rather let you have this moment in private.

JOANNA
Who are -

LISTEN
Don't look around. Please watch the television.

Joanna looks up at the television suspended from the ceiling.

LISTEN (CONT'D)
In two minutes you're going to get a phone call from Cedar Hill Memorial Hospital. It'll be your sister Amy.

Joanna begins to turn.

LISTEN (CONT'D)
Please watch the television.

Joanna turns back, looks up. Inexplicably, there's a coffin on the screen.

LISTEN (CONT'D)
She'll be calling to tell you the doctors have determined your eight-year-old nephew's brain cancer is inoperable, and unfortunately, terminal.

JOANNA
That's not true - he's just got headaches - the EEG is coming back today, the doctors are sure -

LISTEN
They were wrong. Please watch the television.

Onscreen, Joanna's sister Amy sits at a table, alone in a darkened room.
LISTEN (CONT'D)
Four months after their son's death, your brother-in-law will divorce your sister.

On the screen, Amy sets a round bottle of pills on the table.

LISTEN (CONT'D)
Three months after that, your sister will commit suicide.

Joanna's voice catches in her throat.

LISTEN (CONT'D)
There is nothing I can do to change this. But there is something you can do.

JOANNA
What?

Joanna looks up as Listen slides in across the table from her. Listen is a calm fellow of indeterminate age, but there is something youthful in his looks.

LISTEN
It's not something I can explain here. Will you come with me?

JOANNA (flabbergasted)
No!

It's funny when she says that, but Listen doesn't think so. In fact, Listen doesn't do anything but look at her for a long while. Then he nods.

LISTEN
That's your choice.

He gets up and leaves.

JOANNA
Hey...hey wait!

EXT. RESTAURANT

Listen strides quickly down the stairs.

JOANNA
Wait! Wait!
Joanna's phone starts ringing. She stops short, pulls it open. It says "AMY."

Listen's hand closes around the phone.

LISTEN
If you answer that, you're going to set things into motion that I can not change. Or, you can ignore the call, and listen to me for five minutes.

Listen's eyes flick from the cellphone to Joanna.

The "INCOMING -> AMY" blinks to "MISSED CALL".

EXT. RESTAURANT - DAY

Listen walks quickly down the sidewalk, Joanna keeping step all the way.

LISTEN
I have to speak quickly because I can only hold things in stasis for so long. There are specific rules we have to follow.

JOANNA
Like what?

LISTEN
Like something for something. I can help your nephew, but only if you help me first. I can't make changes on my own.

JOANNA
What do I have to do?

LISTEN
God created Man in His own image. Yes?

JOANNA
Yes...

LISTEN
It's more than that. God gave Man a piece of Himself. You'd call it His face. It's more complex than that, but suffice to say: it was broken into 72 pieces and divided amongst the world.

JOANNA
His face?
LISTEN
We know what Jesus looks like, we know what Buddha looked like. There were no cameras in China, no painters in Jerusalem. We even know what the Devil looks like. But what does God look like?

JOANNA
Uh...

LISTEN
This way, hurry!

They rush down a side alley.

INT. ALLEY - DAY

LISTEN
Since you were a child, people have been telling you their stories. Did you ever wonder why?

JOANNA
I don't know, I guess I have one of those faces -

She realizes what she's about to say. Listen picks up on this.

LISTEN
Life is full of its little linguistic ironies.

JOANNA
Where are we?

LISTEN
We need a place of power. The sacred places of the earth don't disappear just because you redecorate.

(looks around)

This looks right. I'll be right back.

And like that: he's gone.

JOANNA
Hello? Hello? What about my nephew?! Hello?!

Sound of skittering bottle.
Joanna turns sharply. There's a bum on the sidewalk. Shuffling slowly toward her.

Joanna slowly takes a step back.

The bum stops.

BUM
You want a drink?

IN THE ALLEY

BUM
She was so beautiful.

Joanna tips the wine bottle up, but she is careful to keep her thumb over the mouth, so she never actually drinks.

When the Bum speaks, he's really talking to himself, or "She". Joanna is, for the most part, incidental.

BUM (CONT'D)
So beautiful it hurts me just to think about it. Because...how could...how could she really like me? There had to be something wrong with her. We were going to have a baby...but I was...too stupid. Too young. Same thing, I guess. No offense.

Joanna shakes her head.

BUM (CONT'D)
And when I saw her tonight...(he is lost in the moment, staring) Her eyes...I can't forget her eyes.

JOANNA
Why?

BUM
Because...she didn't recognize me. She didn't...recognize me. How do I...how do you go on...after something like that?

JOANNA
But you don't remember her either.

BUM
Yeah, I do.
JOANNA
You remember the good things about her.
But you don't remember everything...and it was the everything that made you split up. You didn't break up with her because she was beautiful, right?

BUM
Yeah...

JOANNA
Maybe you just need to give yourself some time to think about it.

BUM
Maybe.
   (swig)
You know, I feel better. Thank you. You're a really good listener. Can I get you something, for your time?

JOANNA
   (shrugs)
Nah, it's okay.

BUM
Here.
   (hands bottle)
Thanks again.

The bum struggles to his feet, slowly walks away.

JOANNA
   (watching him go)
Bye.

Listen appears after a moment, briefcase in hand.

LISTEN
Joanna, you are an exceptionally good person.

JOANNA
Do you know what's going to happen to him? Will he be okay?

LISTEN
The chance of being "okay" died for him a long time ago...but he will be better.

Joanna stands up.
JOANNA
Are there a lot of people like you?

LISTEN
Like what?

JOANNA
All-knowing people. Omniscient.

LISTEN
I'm not omniscient, I'm just very well-researched. If you'd been working the same job for ten thousand years, you'd seem all-knowing too. Do you know how many people you've listened to?

JOANNA
No.

LISTEN
Seven hundred and twelve, if you include that man. Do you know what you are, Joanna? You're a safety valve. People see you, and they know they can trust you with their pain. Do you think it helps them?

JOANNA
I don't know.

LISTEN
In twenty-four years, you've prevented forty-three rapes, one hundred and twelve suicides, thirty-three divorces, ninety-eight murders, and so many cases of spousal abuse I stopped writing them down. Do you know why?

Joanna goes to answer, nods her head softly.

LISTEN (CONT'D)
Do you know why I want the piece back?

JOANNA
To put it back together again, I guess.

LISTEN
Yes. Right now, the world is lost. It doesn't know where to look to. But once the pieces are reassembled...

JOANNA
Things will be better?
LISTEN
Not immediately. Not soon. But yes. Better. It also means that, from now on...no one will tell you their stories anymore. You won't be a safety valve for anyone anymore.

JOANNA
What happens to those people?

LISTEN
They just...do the best they can.

JOANNA
What does that mean?

Listen looks at her, says nothing. But the meaning is clear.

JOANNA (CONT'D)
But my nephew...

LISTEN
If you help me, I can help you. Those are the rules.

JOANNA
My nephew. Seven hundred and twelve people?

Listen nods. Joanna doesn't say anything for a moment.

JOANNA (CONT'D)
I guess seven thirteen is a good number to go out on.

THE ALLEY GROUND

Joanna slowly reclines on the ground. Listen opens the bag, withdrawing a thick wrap of black silk. He starts unfolding it, and we see a piece of a white mask. He unfolds another part: another mask.

Like a Rubix cube, as he folds and unfolds, he exposes more and more masks from within the folds of the cloth.

We cannot see what he's doing with the masks, but a soft glow appears from them.

He brings a glowing, single mask, missing a few edges and part of a cheek. As he places it on Joanna's face, Joanna winces and reaches for the mask -
LISTEN
(harshly)
Don't touch it! You'll lose your hand.

Joanna gives up, and lets the glowing mask overcome her.

FADE TO WHITE

INT. THE RESTAURANT FROM EARLIER

Same restaurant, except now:

A young boy sits in one of the booths, happily eating a hamburger.

AMY
And when the doctor said it was benign, I just started crying right then.

Joanna sits across from her sister Amy as she talks. But she doesn't seem to be paying attention.

AMY (CONT'D)
I told them don't wait, don't risk it, take it out as fast as you can. The operation is in a week, but they say everything should go great. They gave him some medicine to help with the headaches, Tommy says it makes him feel "shiny". Isn't that amazing?

As Amy talks, we realize Joanna is truly not paying attention at all. Her eyes have wandered past Amy to a woman at another table.

THE WOMAN

sits quietly, writing in a journal.

Joanna watches.

The woman is lost in her own private world, writing something. Her lip trembles, dangerous. She looks like she's about to cry.

Joanna cannot stop watching.

The woman suddenly realizes she is in public. She closes up her notebook, takes a quick look around, and locks eyes with Joanna.
Joanna looks back, unflinching. Almost yearning.

And she walks right by her.

    AMY
    Are you okay? You've been looking tired lately.

    JOANNA
    No, I'm okay.

    AMY
    You sure?

    JOANNA
    Yeah.

    AMY
    I always worry about you. I guess you have one of those faces, huh?

    JOANNA
    Yeah.

Joanna looks back. The woman is leaving.

EXT. RESTAURANT - DAY

The woman exits, clutching her notebook.

    JOANNA
    Excuse me!

She turns. Joanna is standing there.

    JOANNA (CONT'D)
    Um...

Joanna is totally lost for words. This is unfamiliar water.

    JOANNA (CONT'D)
    Uh...do you have the time?

    WOMAN
    No.

Joanna is out of ideas. The silence holds, uncomfortably, and the woman turns away.

    JOANNA
    My name's Joanna.
Joanna's eyes fervently try to make a connection.

The woman relaxes.

    JOANNA (CONT'D)
    I'm sorry, I never do this, but I saw you there, and...

The sounds of her explanation are lost as we sweep away from Joanna, to another figure walking in the opposite direction.

It's Listen, carrying his briefcase.

    LISTEN
    Seven hundred and fourteen.

He smiles and slides a black silk-wrapped package into his briefcase.

    LISTEN (CONT'D)
    And still counting.

He walks off-screen.

    THE END