

The Holy Green Stone

A small Mexican town Mayor dreams to build up a new open air cinema hall in his town. In past he sold out his land to provide money for this project but his brother wasted the money in the city bars.

One day there happen some myterious explosions near the town which most of the villagers don't hear them but not Juan (Mayor's son) and Carmen (Eduardo's adopted daughter). Carmen plans to be an orphan teacher and to take oath of celibacy which dangers their affair. She considers these rumbles of explosion as warning by Lord not to go deeper in her relation with Juan.

Pablo (The Fool, living at outskirts of the village without any relative or friend) finds a green stone in his garden after explosions and he tries to inform villagers about it but nobody cares him because Pablo is famous for his unbelievable stories and offering incredible bets.

One time he bet he would let his lovely lamb fall from church tower by his hands and could catch his lamb before it hits the ground, just by running down on the stairs of the tower. He bet on it and he would stake his lamb and a revolver dates back to Pancho Villa, you stake your daughter as a bride for him!

Mayor visits Pablo and sees the Green Stone. He thinks that there could be some precious metals in the stone and he can make money out of the stone to built his cinema.

He sends a stone sample to town, he plans to keep the stone in hand till test results arrive. Meanwhile his rival Eduardo (retired priest) spreads a rumor that the stone is dangerous and may start a disease. Unluckly a common illness in the village (caused by outdated icecream sold in market) makes real trouble for Mayor. Mayor handles the situation by blackmailing his rival Eduardo (with some photos of Eduardo, taken at a club with some ladies) and Mayor keeps his rival under control.

Carmen hears about the disease and Eduardo's manner, she decides to go over her decision about the oath. The test results show that there is nothing precious in the stone. Mayor hands over the stone to Pablo.

The arriving harvest change the agenda and villagers all forget about the stone. One day villagers discover that Bald

Chico is lucky to have his hair again. He rejects to answer how he got hair again. Villagers take him to streamside for a picnic, their plan is to make him drunk and to learn his secret but they fail. Meanwhile villagers notice some Arabs around the village and consider them hunters but since the hunting season is over they report them to Gendarme (local security forces).

Carmen talks to her stepmother (Gloria) and she learns that Eduardo falls in love with her when they were young but could married after Eduardo's service as a priest. Gloria advices her not to let his love go whenever you find the right man.

The monks in monastery invites Carmen for free lectures to orphans. Juan picks Carmen on her way to monastery with his junky car. When junky stops by running out of gasoline, they try to find a gas station but they lost their way.

When Mayor talks to his wife, he learns that Bald Chico had his hair back by mystrious power of the green stone, he also remembers that Pablo's dumb lamb start to bleat. Noticing mysterious power of the stone, Mayor gather the villagers at night and they rush to Pablo's garden.

Before they leave the town, Eduardo stops them and he claims that his Carmen is abducted by Juan, Mayor's son. After a short discussion they split into two group, one for Carmen, one for the stone.

Before the stone group arrive to Pablo's garden, Army already set up a cordon to protect the Green Stone. When Gendarme investigated Arabic hunters, it's understood that they were actually after the stone because the stone is a substance with nuclear power.

At night, when villagers meet soldiers with CBRN (nuclear) protection kits and dresses, they consider them zombies and lost souls and get frightened. They run away from zombies into a depot of the cantina. Next day, when villagers are out of depot, a high ranking officer briefs them, he tells the truth behind what happened last night.

The Carmen group arrives to cantina, it's understood that no problem with young couple, Eduardo apologies.

Army take the nuclear green stone with them, although Mayor looks sad but he is happy for that, he admits that the power is helpful as long as you can control it.

After couple months Mayor builds the cinema in town with government reward for nuclear substance, Carmen and Juan gets married and Carmen is pregnant.
